

Lauren Allison, MD

Joining Willows Pediatrics July 3, 2017

Please welcome Dr. Allison! She is currently completing her pediatric residency at Yale Children's Hospital in New Haven where she has spent the past three years caring for children of all ages in a variety of clinical settings. She will bring all that she learned from these experiences to the care of your infant, child and adolescent. Whether meeting for your child's check-up, or a sick visit, Dr. Allison's goal is to provide individualized, compassionate care informed by current research and guidelines. Dr. Allison hopes to form long-term partnerships with our families as she works together with you to keep your children well from birth through adolescence.

A Connecticut native, Dr. Allison grew up in Redding. She graduated from Wellesley College and received her doctor of medicine degree from Dartmouth Medical School. When not working, she enjoys exploring the hiking trails of Connecticut, playing tennis, kayaking on the Sound and dabbling in the family ice cream business. You're likely to see her walking around town with an energetic golden retriever puppy; if so, please say hello!

Please feel free to call, and we will be happy to schedule an appointment or consultation with Dr. Allison if you would like the opportunity to meet her.
